Police search for suspect that shot at officer

Police are searching for a man who they say shot at a police officer after robbing a bank. Cops say that on Tuesday at around 12:40 a.m., police officers attempted to stop a man wanted for a robbery earlier that day. The suspect fled, cops said, and shot at the officer three times. No one was struck. The robbery was at Manida Street and Lafayette Avenue.

► Police Officer Richard Haste has been suspended pending the outcome of the trial.

► Suspended NYPD officer pleads not guilty to charges of shooting an unarmed teen to death ► Parents of Ramarley Graham break down sobbing in Bronx Criminal Court ► Case reveals underlying tension between police and minority New Yorkers, some say Emotions ran high yesterday morning at the Bronx Criminal Courthouse. There, Police Officer Richard Haste hobbled in on crutches to his arraignment, where he was charged with manslaughter for allegedly killing an unarmed teenager.

Haste pleaded not guilty in the shooting death of Ramarley Graham, 18, killed in February.

Graham's parents broke down in tears during the court hearing.

Father Frank Graham cried as prosecutors detailed how they said Haste "consciously and deliberately pulled the trigger" while facing the teen in his bathroom.

Haste was in an undercover narcotics unit, and officers reportedly said they thought Graham had a gun.

They followed Graham into his Wakefield apartment, and Haste allegedly fired one shot at him in the bathroom, killing him. Graham was reportedly trying to flush a small bag of marijuana down the toilet at the time.

Haste's bail was set at $50,000, which he paid and then left the courthouse. It is unknown why he was on crutches.

Graham's mother, Constance Malcolm, told reporters outside court, "This has to stop. They can't keep killing our kids."

Graham also said that he won't be able to spend Father's Day, this Sunday, with his son.

"Haste is going home to his family. When we leave here, we're going to the cemetery," he said, according to The Associated Press.

Anti-NYPD protesters as well as supportive fellow members of the NYPD rallied outside the courthouse yesterday.

News reports cited cheering fellow officers along with protesters yelling, "NYPD, KKK, how many kids did you kill today?"

Case reveals racial tension

Brooklyn Councilman Jumaane Williams said the anger of protesters yesterday highlights the underlying tension between the police and minority communities.

"Many of us have been saying that there's a lot of tension that's bubbling up," he said.

Minorities feel they are treated differently by cops, he said.

"When you say that it's OK to treat communities differently, this is what happens," he said. "Usually black and Latino men can be treated differently, and that leads to an unarmed man being shot and killed in his bathroom."

Six trapped in Hilton elevator after explosion in basement

A generator exploded in the basement of the massive Hilton hotel on Sixth Avenue in Midtown yesterday afternoon, according to the FDNY.

The call reporting the explosion came in at 1:09 p.m., firefighters told Metro.

The explosion did not cause a fire, but the basement and lobby of the hotel filled with black smoke from the blast, and the building lost electric power.

Two of the 24 elevators in the illustrious hotel stopped working as a result of the power loss, and six people were trapped inside the lifts for approximately 45 minutes. After they got out, one woman who was trapped was so shaken by the incident that she had to be carried out of the hotel on a stretcher, and was treated for stress-related problems.

"I didn't know what was happening," said the woman, a member of the hotel's housekeeping staff who did not want to give her name. "I was very scared and nervous."

Two burned, cause unclear

The explosion gave two electricians who were working in the area minor burn injuries, according to Division 3 Fire Chief Jim Hodgkins. Both men were taken to New York Hospital.

Firefighters said they are not sure what caused the blast; an investigation is underway.

► One sex-trafficking victim said in December that as many as 70 different cab drivers knowingly took her to meet with johns.

New York targets sex-trafficking taxicab drivers

New York City cab drivers convicted of felony sex trafficking for ferrying prostitutes to illicit liaisons would lose their licenses under new legislation passed yesterday by the New York City Council.

The council measure follows the high-profile arrests in April of a half dozen New York livery cab drivers charged with promoting prostitution. Prosecutors said the drivers got a fee to help find customers for a ring of prostitutes.

In December, a sex-trafficking victim testified before the City Council that she had worked with about 70 drivers who ferried her to 5,000 clients.

$10K

Cabbies caught ferrying prostitutes could face up to a $10,000 fine.

"We are recognizing ... the unconscionable and cruel role that taxi drivers and livery drivers are playing in this brutal attack, that keeps people trapped [and] takes their lives away from them," City Council Speaker Christine Quinn said at a news conference.

Quinn also announced that the city partnered with Delta, JetBlue and American Airlines, all companies that agreed to train their flight crews on how to recognize sex-trafficking victims on a plane, and what to do if someone approaches them.

"Airports aren't the only way that victims are brought in, but it's clearly one way," she said.

Under the legislation, city taxi and livery drivers would face up to a $10,000 fine and lose their licenses if convicted of a felony related to sex trafficking.

The legislation goes to Mayor Michael Bloomberg for his signature. Bloomberg's office had no immediate comment on the bill. REUTERS/ALISON BOWEN

Brooklyn rents keep climbing

Brooklyn's still got it.

It's now more expensive than ever to live in many Brooklyn neighborhoods, according to a report released today.

Unprecedented rental rates are emerging in Brooklyn Heights, DUMBO and Williamsburg, according to a monthly Brooklyn rental report released by MNS realty group.

The May 2012 report showed that one- and two-bedroom rental rates in Brooklyn Heights are an average of 22 percent and 35 percent higher than the average rents for the rest of the borough, respectively.

► For cheaper rents, keep heading east.

"Still want this trendy nabe, think about going solo where you can get a studio for just under $2,000," suggests the report.

In addition, two-bedroom units in those neighborhoods have seen a rental increase of 11.6 percent since last year. Those units are now renting for an average of $3,077 per month.

Those looking for cheaper Brooklyn options can always move to less expensive neighborhoods like Bed-Stuy, but even there rents have gone up 6.5 percent in the last two months, thanks in part to new construction, the report found. Still, despite the increase, rent in Bed-Stuy is still 45 percent less than in Williamsburg. ● METRO/DB

Man charged with raping senior woman

QUEENS. After a several-day search, police arrested the man who they said raped a 64-year-old woman in Rockaway Beach on Sunday.

Samuel Doctor, 22, was arrested Tuesday. Police said he raped the woman early Sunday morning at the corner of Rockaway Beach Boulevard and Beach 91st Street.

According to cops, Doctor followed the woman, forced her to the ground and raped her at about 5:30 a.m. Sunday.

Police said he was wearing a distinctive Miami Marlins hat during the alleged attack and police released a photo of the suspect wearing the hat.

Doctor, who lives in the neighborhood at Beach 96th Street, was arrested at his home and charged with rape and sex abuse. ● METRO/CB

Bloomberg charity offers $9 million for best new city governing pitches

WRITE TO METRO:
LETTERS@METRO.US

Mayor Michael Bloomberg is offering $9 million in prizes to U.S. cities through his charitable foundation in a competition for ideas that local governments can use to solve problems.

The contest, which Bloomberg Philanthropies calls the Mayors Challenge, started yesterday; the foundation sent invitations to compete to 1,300 mayors of U.S. cities with more than 30,000 residents. They have until Sept. 14 to enter their submissions, said James Anderson, director of the charity's government-innovation program.

The top 20 finalists will visit New York at the philanthropy's expense for a so-called "ideas camp," two days of mingling with foundation-selected experts to refine proposals on affordable housing, health, money and management. The winner, to be announced next year, will receive $5 million, and four runners-up will each get $1 million.

New York City isn't eligible, Anderson said.

"The Mayors Challenge creates an opportunity for mayors to champion their boldest ideas and to have them take root locally and perhaps spread nationally," said Bloomberg in a statement.

Good political sense, too

► "In a baldly political sense, he's collecting chits," said Douglas Muzzio, professor of urban politics at Baruch College in Manhattan, said of Bloomberg's contest.

► "But the bottom line is, is this good for the public? And the answer has to be yes. There's real policy being made here. And he gets the personal satisfaction of funding a good thing and receiving praise from the five mayors participating in it."

His charity has committed $24 million to city governments in Chicago, New Orleans, Atlanta, Louisville and Memphis.

The foundation's promotional video features Chicago Mayor Rahm Emanuel discussing the $6 million his city received. He used the money to hire staff to improve agencies' customer services, and develop energy-conservation programs to cut carbon emissions in residential buildings. The city has reduced licenses and permits required of small-businesses by about half, said Anderson. BLOOMBERG

Sweden stands by tweeter

► Official Sweden Twitter campaign marred by 'Jew' comments and other weird ramblings ► Country stands by social media experiment

► "Some of them have been talking about music, some of them have been talking about food," Tommy Sollen, social media manager at Visit Sweden, told the Wall Street Journal about the guest curators. "Sonja is more focused on her own brand of humor and asking probing questions."

Few believed the news that Sweden would really let ordinary citizens take charge of the country's official Twitter account. After six successful months, the experiment has now taken a controversial turn, as the current poster wrote several questionable tweets about Jews and Hitler and said she sometimes wishes she "had downs syndrome. Maybe some things would be easier then."

Whether this added attention was just what Visit Sweden was looking for is unknown, but they're not going to stifle Sonja Abrahamsson.

"We haven't spoken to her, as that could be seen as censorship," Maria Ziv, marketing director of Visit Sweden said yesterday. "We won't call her."

"Whats the fuzz with jews," the 27-year-old Abrahamsson tweeted on behalf of @sweden. "You can't even see if a person is a jew, unless you see their penises, and even if you do, you can't be sure!?! ... In nazi German they even had to sew stars on their sleeves. If they didn't, they could never now who was a jew and who was not a jew."

Unless the 27-year-old makes the decision to abandon ship, she will continue as an ambassador for Sweden until Sunday, Ziv said.

Sandusky accuser tells tale of abuse, along with intimidation

JEFF SWENSEN/GETTY IMAGES

► Jerry Sandusky arrives at the court house before the third day of his child sex abuse trial.

A third accuser of Jerry Sandusky told jurors yesterday the former Penn State assistant football coach performed oral sex on him when he was a boy, then used threats to keep him quiet about the abuse.

The 25-year-old man said he first met Sandusky in 1997 while attending a summer camp of the Second Mile, a charity founded by Sandusky, but began a relationship with him the following year after attending a second camp, when he was 11.

The witness said he had gone to Sandusky's home in the fall of 1998. With no one else apparently in the house, the two went to his basement and began wrestling on the floor, he said.

"He kind of pinned me to the ground and pulled my pants down and started performing oral sex on me. I freaked out," he said, voice low.

Accounts from a handful of witnesses at the trial this week — including two victims yesterday — have portrayed Sandusky as a predator who used his charity and his reputation to win friendship with boys, who he then molested.

The accuser who yesterday recounted being "pinned" to the ground by Sandusky later told jurors that the former coach coerced him to keep quiet about the incident.

"He told me that if I told anybody, I would never see my family again," said the man, who was living in a foster home at the time and is known in court documents as Victim 10. "I didn't say anything. Then he apologized for saying that and said he loved me."

Another witness, now a 27-year-old man, told jurors that he met Sandusky at a Second Mile summer camp in 1995 when he was 11.

Sandusky offered that fall to take him to Penn State football games and he went with him to home games from 1995 to 2000.

The man said he showered alone with Sandusky at Penn State athletic facilities six times. At one point the coach bear-hugged him from behind in the shower. REUTERS

Club Getaway: Camp's Not Just For Kids Anymore

I never went to summer camp as a kid. My buddy Steve did, and tells me constantly about a similar experience for us "old" guys (ie two 31-year-olds) in the form of a weekend summer camp for adults called Club Getaway. After two summers I cave in and off we go. I warn him if I awake to find my boxers waiving from the flagpole or Freddie Kruger in my bed, I'm out of there, however.

We arrive, and the activities choices seem endless — waterskiing, volleyball, trapeze, mountain biking, wakeboarding, a 250 foot zip line, rock climbing, coed softball, golf, archery — even basketball with an NBA pro. We put our blackberries down, stopped debating fantasy football and spent the entire weekend like two sports-crazed warriors.

We met a couple of cool girls which lead to doubles tennis matches, a kayaking race, hikes along the wooded trails and sailing out into the middle of the lake. They even convinced us to take a wine tasting class. Where else can you be in the wilderness, work on your serve, and learn about varietal wines all in the same afternoon? At night there was a bonfire complete with an acoustic guitar and s'mores. The girls seemed impressed with my rendition of Kumbaya.

Located on 300 acres in the Berkshires of Kent, Connecticut, Club Getaway is just 90 minutes away by car or Getaway Bus.

"Where else can you be in the wilderness, work on your serve, and learn about varietal wines all in the same afternoon?"

As we climb aboard the bus for the ride home, I tell Steve, "I can't believe I didn't listen to you sooner" and he comments on how maybe now I'll take his fantasy picks more seriously too. Yeah, that will never happen.

Cold virus hitches a ride to kill cancer

In a significant step forward for the development of a potential new cancer treatment, scientists have found how a common cold virus can kill tumors and trigger an immune response, like a vaccine, when injected into the blood stream.

Researchers from Britain's Leeds University and the Institute of Cancer Research said by hitching a ride on blood cells, the virus was protected from antibodies in the blood stream that might otherwise neutralize its cancer-fighting abilities.

The findings suggest viral therapies like this, called reovirus, could be injected into the blood stream at routine outpatient appointments — like standard chemotherapy — making them potentially suitable for treating a range of cancers.

The study, part-funded by the charity Cancer Research U.K. and conducted on 10 patients with advanced bowel cancer, confirmed that reovirus attacks on two fronts — killing cancer cells directly and triggering an immune response that helps eliminate leftover cancer cells. REUTERS

Boy Scouts board member speaks out against gay ban

JIM WATSON/AFP/GETTY IMAGES

Jim Turley, chairman and chief executive officer of Ernst & Young and a board member of the Boy Scouts of America, has joined calls to end the group's exclusion of gays.

In a statement issued by Ernst & Young, the global tax and consulting firm, Turley said he will "work from within" the Boy Scouts to help change its policy that prohibits gays from being members or leaders of the youth organization.

"I support the meaningful work of the Boy Scouts in preparing young people for adventure, leadership, learning and service. However, the membership policy is not one I would personally endorse," Turley said. REUTERS

► Turley's announcement came in the wake of a petition calling for the Boy Scouts to end the group's ban on homosexuals.

News in brief

Dimon says fiscal cliff may be reached before year's close

NEW YORK. JPMorgan Chase & Co. Chief Executive Officer

Jamie Dimon, testifying to a U.S. Senate panel, said the government is risking an earlier-than-expected fiscal crisis as policymakers stay deadlocked on taxes and the budget.

"The one thing to keep in mind about the fiscal cliff is it may not wait until Dec. 31," Jamie Dimon, 56, said today before the Senate Banking Committee, which called him to answer questions about a $2 billion trading loss. "Markets and businesses may start taking actions before that, that create a slowdown in the economy." REUTERS

CNN axes John King show, shifts his focus to election

LOS ANGELES. CNN said yesterday it was canceling John King's daily TV show "John King, USA," and shifting the veteran journalist to head up its 2012 presidential campaign coverage.

John King's show will end on June 29, and Wolf Blitzer's "The Situation Room" will be extended to three hours to replace King's time slot at 6 p.m. EDT, CNN said.

King, 48, will provide reports to other CNN shows. REUTERS

Lohan avoids a charge, gains a babysitter

This Lindsay Lohan car crash is turning out to be especially hard to look away from.

Not only did the actress lie about who was driving, but now police have confiscated a plastic bottle full of alcohol from the rented Porsche's trunk, reports TMZ. Luckily, police have decided not to cite her with an open container violation, and she reportedly was not under the influence at the time of the crash.

Lohan's employers, however, aren't willing to look the other way. The producers of her new Elizabeth Taylor biopic for Lifetime, "Liz & Dick," decided to stop taking chances and hired her a driver.

"Lifetime will lose a ton of money if Lindsay doesn't finish filming 'Liz and Dick,' plus they don't want anything to happen to her on their watch," a source tells PerezHilton.com. "So it was decided it would be cheaper to get her a driver. This is a make-or-break moment for Lindsay."

Nice start, guys. But we recommend adding a special ops team, a creative pharmacist, a lazy river and the fluffiest basket of kittens L.A. has to offer if you truly want to contain this girl.

A private pilot who claims he had a six-year affair with John Travolta in the '80s is shopping around a tell-all book, according to the National Enquirer. "It could be a marriage-ender," an insider tells the paper. "A book by a man who John carried on with for multiple years would simply be too much."

Presley in 'Storm and Grace' land

► Lisa Marie gets her Brit on ► The daughter of the King on moving to a land where royals still reign

KEVIN HEES

► Why did Lisa Marie Presley go across the pond? "I love Guinness."

Madonna, Gwyneth, Lisa Marie Presley: All-American girls gone Brit-crazy. For Presley, there's one particular aspect of being an Anglophile that she likes: the local pub.

"There are lots of pubs near where we live in Sussex, but there's one that's become my local," says Presley. "I love that I can walk in there and see everyone in the village. I never got that social aspect of it until I lived here. I love to go in and say hello to people. And I love Guinness."

The Memphis belle's first new album in seven years, the rootsy Americana set "Storm and Grace," is being hailed as a return to her Southern roots, but after her last tour, five years ago, all Presley wanted was to ditch them.

"I didn't feel like doing much of anything for a while," she says. "I am a writer at heart. I felt that if I was in a different place and got rid of all the things I knew that I'd start writing again. I had to leave everyone and everything I knew behind in order to write."

Presley co-wrote the album in England with several contributors, including two Brits: Pulp guitarist Richard Hawley, who's also a solo artist with a Southern twang to his music; and Ed Harcourt, a brilliant melodicist and songwriter.

"It was really my husband's idea," says Presley of the hook-ups. Her husband is guitarist/producer Michael Lockwood, who also lent a hand. "He knows more about musicians and that kind of thing."

Bring T-Bone to the table

"Storm and Grace" is produced by 12-time Grammy Award-winner T Bone Burnett, a master of Americana.

"I am a fan of his work, he's done so many great records," says Presley, who manages enthusiastic praise without gushing. "I sent him some demos and I was really hoping he'd want to work with me. He got back to me so quickly. I was so happy to work with him."

Must-see

1 'Rock of Ages' Based on the play of the same name, director Adam Shankman ("Hairspray") once again brings Broadway to Hollywood. Set to popular hair metal hits of the 1980s, Drew (Diego Boneta) and Sherrie (Julianne Hough) seek musical fame in Los Angeles. Oh, and then there's Tom Cruise starring as mystical rock god, Stacee Jaxx.

3 'Prometheus' Reviews might've been mixed, but Metro highly recommends this 3-D epic. Ridley Scott returns to the franchise he started with the 1979 classic film "Alien," but this film may or not be a prequel. A group of scientists travel to a foreign planet in the hopes of discovering their origin.

4 'Madagascar 3: Europe's Most Wanted' Still desperately trying to get back home to

New York City, the old gang finds themselves seeking cover in a traveling circus that's touring Europe.

What it's like to be 'Miss Advised'?

► Professional matchmaker Amy Laurent has successfully united many couples, but how does she fare in her own love life? ► Bravo TV's new reality show explores the lives of Laurent and other single relationship experts

New York matchmaker Amy Laurent is about to star in a show that points out all the ways in which she doesn't stick to her own dating advice. Bravo TV's "Miss Advised" features herself and two other relationship experts — Julia Allison in Los Angeles and Emily Morse in San Francisco — who can dole out great bits of wisdom for other people, but have a hard time settling down themselves. Laurent discussed with us the perils of dating on TV.

I can't imagine anyone signs up to do a reality show knowing it will end up being about how, as a dating expert, she doesn't take her own dating advice.

Well, I knew. First of all, the decision to make a reality show is a big one. I knew that this wasn't a matchmaker show. It was pretty clear that this would be an inside look at what real life is for an expert. When you go into a show knowing there are two other relationship experts who happen to be single, you can't lie to yourself and say "I didn't know this was going to delve into my personal life."

Which of your own rules is the hardest to follow?

I'm really great at guiding people through relationships because my heart's not involved and I'm in control. When my ex came back into town, I felt like a 12-year-old girl in a panic. You're not supposed to see your ex. ... And what do I say? I say, "I can't wait to see you." But it's real and this is what being human is all about.

How did you prepare the men you were dating for spending time in front of the camera?

To be honest, for the past four and a half years, I haven't really dated, so having a camera there didn't make much of a difference for me because I was just getting myself back into the dating world. There was no prep time. Yes, doing a show like this, you have to get used to the cameras, but I can promise you that when you're dealing with something so raw and real, you forget the cameras are there. It really gets personal.

Her dating rules for women

- Never initiate the text to the guy. "If you start taking that role, he's going to sit back and relax and you're going to have to chase him."
- Keep busy. "If you like a guy, don't say no to other dates. Keep dating other people until you're exclusive."
- Don't accept same-day dates. "I don't care if you're bored off your butt and he says, 'Are you free tonight?' You teach him: 'You want to see me? You have to plan ahead.'"

... and for men

- Don't ask her out for the second date while on the first date. "Don't put that person on the spot."
- Don't reach out too soon after the first date. "[Reach out] maybe the next evening."
- Don't plan dinner or drinks at your house. "Obviously, don't have sex early on."

‘Spinsterlicious’

► How one woman is single-handedly reinventing what it means to be female and single past your 30s

► Eleanor Wells' book, "Spinsterlicious," is available on Amazon.com

The 'Spin'

Pearls of Wells' wisdom:

- If your ex was a jerk the first time around, he's still be a jerk next time around: "If [your reason for breaking up the first time was] personality- or behavior-related—he was a jerk, he wasn't nice, if he was mean, if he cheated—you know those are four things that kind of say something about the person. Don't go there."
- You can't force chemistry: "I think you kind of know relatively quickly whether you are drawn to someone. ... I don't think you can force it. So, there was a time when I would meet, you know, what we would call your 'standard nice guy,' and I'd feel nothing and I'd say, 'Oh, but he's so great, he's a good person! I should be attracted to him. I should want to date him.' It doesn't work."
- Babies aren't for everybody: "There's almost nothing else you can do in life that you can't take back or change in any way. Having a kid is. You have to be 100 percent all the way in, and so if there's doubt there, I think you should wait until there is no doubt."

"I love having a boyfriend. I love having him go home," says Eleanor Wells, the vivacious author of "The Spinsterlicious Life: 20 Life Lessons for Living Happily Single & Childfree." Wells has not had what many consider the traditional life. By middle age, she is unmarried and child-free. And she's sick of people pitying her for it.

"I don't think husbands and kids are for everybody," she says. "I think they're really good things to have, but lots of women, either by choice or by circumstance, are not going to have that. My belief is that you owe yourself a good life, no matter what your circumstance is. ... I'm living proof, because I have a fantastic life."

Having been a source of inspiration to her other single friends, Wells decided to outline, in her book, all of the benefits of singledom. Her points are not aimed at rejecting coupling, but at leading a full life while alone, which can also lead to being not so single anymore.

"You can certainly figure out a way to celebrate all the other good things that are going on in your life," says Wells. "And happy people often attract other people."

So you think you've had some bad dates?

► Author Eddie Campbell might have you beat with his new book, '44 Horrible Dates' ► What you need to do to avoid cringe-worthy courting

The Car Squatter, the Gay Pirate, the Cross-Eyed Magician, the Sleeping Pill — are these characters all part of a bad "Saturday Night Live" sketch? No. These are the nicknames that belong to some of the worst men author Eddie Campbell has ever dated. The Los Angeles native has had so many terrible and extreme experiences that he's recently compiled them into a book: "44 Horrible Dates."

Campbell's hilarious look at dating in L.A. is rife with oddballs — from the guy who showed up to a date hopped up on cocaine to the one who wanted to put some groceries to use in the bedroom. Is Campbell a magnet for crazy? Given reader response to his memoirs, he doesn't think so.

"I mean, the cover's cute, but there's nothing cute going on on the inside."

Campbell

"You can be the college-educated person, have a great life, love your family — all that stuff can be in place, and you can still meet a—holes," Campbell says. "I know so many gorgeous, beautiful, smart women who keep just meeting d— after d— after d—."

But he says all those terrible dates have helped him to avoid future disasters.

"It's a good lesson for everyone because when you're younger, you're a lot less judgmental about who you might go on a date with," says Campbell. "As you get older, and you're still single, you start breaking down what you're willing to put up with. It's not being overly picky, but it's knowing what's right for you."

Campbell stresses that one of the best ways to avoid the pitfalls he's experienced with say, Nightmare on Vegan Street, is to take some time to evaluate your potential date before agreeing to spend time with them.

"Talk longer on the phone, get out a few questions," Campbell says. "I've actually been on dates where you're so bored you're thinking about separating your darks from your whites and what you're doing for the next day. Don't place yourself in that scenario."

Titling 'entitlement'

RE: "FACTS ARE FACTS: LET'S ADDRESS THEM": Ms. Coughlin needs a reading comprehension lesson and a lesson on what people mean by the "social safety net." I don't need to be reminded that Social Security is not an entitlement program, because I was not referring to Social Security when I mentioned that the Republican Party wants to reduce government waste and fraud in the entitlement programs. Also, Social Security is not considered part of the social safety net — but obviously Ms. Coughlin doesn't know the difference. The social safety net is referring to government programs that are in place to help the poor and the sick. She should go back and read my letter a second time so she can see that I never mentioned Social Security. She's entitled to her opinion, that what the Republican Party wants to do is a "crock," but she should back it up with some facts defending her opinion. In fact, both Democrats and Republicans want to reduce waste and fraud in government programs for obvious reasons.

SAM KHOURY, VIA E-MAIL

Elaine Coughlin is right about many Republicans' schemes for Social Security, but she plays into their hands by insisting it's "not an entitlement." Social Security is absolutely an entitlement (from the root "title," or ownership), like insurance or annuities we pay into. Conservatives have confused the debate with phrases like "so-called entitlement" and "entitlement mentality," making it seem like a dirty word and falsely comparing Social Security to general tax-paid welfare programs. Think: If someone claimed you aren't "entitled" to your Social Security upon retirement, would you agree?

DAVE CAMPBELL, VIA E-MAIL

Raise the (performance) roof

RE: "IF UNIONS ARE GONE, WHO'S NEXT?": Businesses should not give raises and higher wages out of the "goodness of their hearts." Raises and higher wages come from exemplary performance and experience. That's why higher-skilled laborers earn higher salaries. It may sound crude, but the fact that you have bills to pay, families to feed and vacations to plan is irrelevant to the business. Remember that, as a potential employee, you are "selling" yourself to the company. You need to convince them you are the best person for the job. I have no problem with unions in principle to give workers a voice, but all unions are good for now is lining the pockets of union bureaucrats.

KELLY DONNOE, LYNBROOK

A horse of a different color

There's been another horse hurt on the streets of N.Y. How many times do we have to be hit over the head before we come to a common-sense decision to take them off the streets. It is common sense that a horse does not do well walking the streets of N.Y. Stop with the romantic notion that it does. Someone needs to have the guts to say no to this inhumane practice. It's common sense! ABBY DUMONT, EAST WINDSOR, NJ

Horoscope

II Gemini May 21-June 20. Although you may feel impelled to conduct yourself graciously with certain people over whom you have authority, you'll be glad you did. It'll enhance a favorable impression of you.

☿ Cancer June 21-July 22. You'll have little problem accurately perceiving the outcome of events once you put your mind to doing so. All you have to do is focus on significant events.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Even if you are pressed into a position where you're asked to mastermind a joint endeavor, you'll do remarkably well. The ways to do so will be obvious to you, even if they aren't to others.

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. When working out an agreement with someone, be sure to negotiate from a position of strength, but also try to be fair. Collectively, it'll spell success.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. That appropriate help you need in order to undertake a difficult task will be out there, but it won't simply come to you. You'll have to seek it out. Just ask nicely to get what you need.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. It behooves you to let your feelings be known regarding someone you're attracted to but have been reluctant to approach. There's a chance the feelings could be mutual.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. Even though you might perform your tasks in ways that may baffle people who are trying to understand your techniques, it's likely to turn out to be a very productive day for you.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. You may not be one who easily or often speaks your mind, but when you do, everyone within earshot sits up and takes notice. They'll sense you know what you're talking about.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. Your instincts regarding commercial matters could be rather extraordinary. All it will take to go after something big is the scent of profit in the air.

♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. Having a slight mystique about you makes your personality more appealing to members of the opposite gender. You'll not be role-playing; your performance will come naturally.

♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Although it doesn't always work, appealing to the nobler instincts of others will elicit benefits for you both socially and financially. Try to petition people whom you've aided in the past.

♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. After spending some time with someone you thought had little to offer by way of friendship, it might surprise you when he or she invites you into his or her special circle of friends.

ELK STUDIOS/ERIN KORNFIELD

► MoMA's P.S. 1 Warm Up dance parties draw crowds on Saturdays from July 7 through Sept. 8.

SHAKE IT ALL OVER

► Sweat-tested, Metro-approved ► We found the hottest dance parties where you can shake it on the cheap

Sometimes you go out dancing. Other times, you leave your sweaty soul and all of life's problems on the dance floor and hobble home covered in bruises from your epic moves. As the temperature climbs outside, dance parties are flourishing all over New York, where there is a venue for every musical taste.

Here are some sweat-tested places to shake it until the wee hours of the morning for little or no money down. What's more, these are the kinds of places where the dance floor is neutral terrain and any move under the disco ball is fair game.

► Bembe
81 South Sixth St.,
Williamsburg
www.bembe.us

This truly multy-culty dance party has caipirinhas behind the bar and music that ranges from Angolan kuduro to modern house to Colombian cumbia (sometimes with live drum accompaniment, natch). Visitors dance as partners or on their own, and often in a packed mass of bodies when the night gets going. It gets hot — literally and metaphorically — which makes the tropical drinks from behind the bar all the more refreshing.

Cover: Free most nights

► The Rub
Various venues in Brooklyn and Manhattan
www.itstherub.com

Born out of a love of hip-hop and disdain for pretense, The Rub began putting together monthly laid-back parties where dancing and great music were the most important elements. The parties prevail as sweaty, fun affairs with a vibe that is more house party than bottle service. The official Rub party is at the Bell House once a

Dance at MoMA

► Warm Up at P.S. 1
22-25 Jackson Ave at 46th Ave., Long Island City
www.momaps1.org/warmup

Working on your tan with a beer in hand and music to get down to is a special kind of happiness. The white gravel courtyard of P.S. 1 becomes a place to boogie on Saturdays in July through September. Most dance parties don't offer much in the way of intellectual development, but at Warm Up, the admission includes access to the museum's exhibitions: a perfect way to cool off or rest your dancing feet. Cover: $15 (includes admission to galleries)

month, but the organizers have several venues this summer hosting their signature vibe. Cover: Free-$10, depending on the night

► I <3 Vinyl
Various venues in Brooklyn and Manhattan, including Le Poisson Rouge and Littlefield
www.ilovevinyl.org

There are mega-afros and gold platforms at this celebration of vinyl, where the music is as eclectic as the crowd. Soul, disco, funk, Latin, Afrobeat — if it's pressed on plastic and has a hole in the center, it will be getting the primped and coiffed dance floor moving.

Home Sweet Home

131 Chrystie St.
www.homesweethomebar.com
Down a set of unassuming stairs and past a taxidermied ferret, there is a low-ceilinged alcove where any dance move is valid. Motley gaggles of all kinds dance out their sillies here 7 nights a week, in particular on Fridays for DJ Jonathan Toubin's Shakin' All Over Under Sideways Down parties. Toubin's recent recovery from an accident that left him in critical condition means that the line snakes down the block on Fridays, but the authentic 45 rpm record dance party is worth it. Cover: $3 or free most days

Metro grills BBQ master John Stage

COURTESY OF DINOSAUR BAR-B-QUE

Hot chef

► John Stage mans the grill at Harlem's Dinosaur Bar-B-Que.

John Stage is the man you want at your BBQ parties this summer. Owner and Pit Master of Dinosaur Bar-B-Que in Harlem, Stage knows all the tricks to what makes good barbecue. With a new location in Brooklyn set to open in 2013, the chef shared his tips for superb summer grilling.

We hear you got your start on the road serving meals for bikers. I'm a Harley-Davidson rider and I realized the food for them wasn't good. I spent years serving food for bikers at motorcycle shows and tattoo shows. Eventually I got burnt out by that lifestyle. I wanted to settle down instead of living life on the road.

What's the difference between grilling and barbecuing?

The biggest difference between the two is the temperature. You have to master your fire. Grilling is done on high heat and done quickly. You have to be right there when you're grilling, as it requires immediate attention. Barbecue requires low temperature and patience — a great amount of patience.

Do you cook when you're not working?

I do cook when I'm not working, but it's different. At home

If you go

► Dinosaur Bar-B-Que
700 W. 125th St.
(212) 694-1777
www.dinosaurbarbque.com

I'm more pasta-driven, though I'll grill occasionally. I usually cook a quick meal, nothing elaborate. Lately my go-to has been jerked chicken since I can cook it in 45 minutes and have fun around the grill.

Summer is around the corner.

What tips can you offer for those prepping for a barbecue?

A big mistake people make is flipping the meat too often. It drives me crazy when I see it. Try to let it sit and not flip too much. Also, a lot of people marinate. When meat is wet and you put it on the grill, you're negating the purpose. All that does is create a steam effect. Dry the meat before putting it on the grill. This way you'll get a smoky, seared difference.

HUDSON WHISKEY

► Visit the Hudson Distillery, Whiskey Magazine's Distillery of the Year.

Now that you're at the point when you can have a drink together, why not plan a Father's Day outing that celebrates it? The father-and-son-owned Hudson Distillery in Gardiner, N.Y., is offering weekend tours with tastings of its award-winning, locally sourced spirits. Reflect on your own origins (or just toss back a few drams) while distillers take you and pop through the process of creating a batch of their single malt, rye and bourbon whiskeys.

Sushi restaurants roll out new flavors

Bryant Park's gorgeous KOI (www.koirestaurant.com) has added two new rolls that evoke summer's grilled dishes. The Toro Wasa Roll is a generous bundle of fatty tuna and pickled radish topped with wasabi-spiked relish and served with a smoked soy sauce. The truffle-scented Kobe Roll wraps seared rare Kobe beef around asparagus, cucumber and roasted onion tempura flakes.

South American/Japanese fusion restaurant SUSHISAMBA (www.sushisamba.com) which uses cilantro, lime and jalapeno to create a vibrant sashimi-meets-sushi cuisine, has introduced the first quinoa sushi. Their Quinoa Temaki — hand rolls substituting the protein-rich superfood for rice — include sweet chili tuna, shrimp and shishito with cilantro and spicy mayo. Another option is yasai, a vegetarian option combining avocado, snow pea shoots and sweet potato tempura. Other sushi varieties can be made into quinoa hand rolls as well — we recommend eel and avocado — but gluten-free folks should double-check with waiters to avoid ingredients that may contain wheat. METRO

Summer Solstice at City Harvest

City Harvest is celebrating the longest day of the year by helping to feed the hungry at the Summer in the City event. On Wednesday, June 20, the evening of summer solstice, attendees will gather on the Metropolitan Pavilion from 7:30-10 p.m. Beer, wine, cocktails and food from more than 30 NYC restaurants, including Luke's Lobster Bar and BLT Burger, will be served. Tickets start at $150 each. Proceeds from each ticket will help provide fresh produce for more than 550 people. City Harvest helps feed hungry New Yorkers at almost 600 programs by rescuing close to 100,000 pounds of food every day. JOANIE FERGUSON

Laura Cantrell's other Music City

 ► Hear her play new material this Friday at Jalopy Theater in Brooklyn

Listening to Laura Cantrell, you may be surprised to find out that she's a New Yorker. It may have come as a surprise to Cantrell, herself. While attending Columbia, the Nashville-raised singer discovered an unexpectedly robust country music scene and decided to stay put while she began her recording career. "I think that there are country music fans everywhere," she says. "When you're dealing music-lover to music-lover, they don't subscribe to the clichés." She is currently working on a new album of original songs.

Why did you stay in New York?
 I realized early on that, despite my initial shock that there would be a country music audience in New York, there was quite a large and well-informed country audience here — maybe not so much about the current hits of the day, but going back to the folk era. In the Village there were a lot of people who observed the renaissance of Appalachian music and followed that through the '70s and '80s ... I saw Alison Krauss for the first time at the Bottom Line many years ago. So you could trace, through what came through New York and what the audience liked here, these threads of country music history — and that was always very interesting to me.

How did you find that scene?

There was so much live music in New York; you could see everything from a local band that had rockabilly influences mixed with punk to Merle Haggard or Willie Nelson playing at Tramps or Radio City or the Beacon. Johnny Cash played in New York, too, two or three times every year. There was a long period where the really big icons of country music would make a stop in New York: Dolly Parton, Loretta Lynn, Tammy Wynette — I got to see them all here in New York City.

You've covered songs from decidedly non-country artists like New Order and Burt Bacharach. What leads you to cover a particular song?
 I think that you choose covers because of what you might be able to do with them emotionally. ... When I recorded [Bacharach's] "Trains and Boats and Planes," I had just had my daughter and my lifestyle had suddenly changed from being someone who traveled a lot and had the freedom to move, to being, all of a sudden, rooted to my apartment and the rhythms and schedule of my daughter, so for me the wistfulness of that song was a little bit about leaving the freedom to be able to go. At the same time, the song itself is a love song and it's hopeful ... it's wistful and yet it turns that around. Those were the things that I personally related to.

In the case of "Love Vigilantes," that was a little bit more self-conscious as a choice because I knew that a New Order song would really be something that was not expected out of a country-folk singer. ... It's a really cool, beautifully written song, and part of me was tempted to go in the direction of "Wink, wink, here's us doing New Order, aren't we clever?" and another side of me said, "No, let's tell the story." And in doing that, for me, it was much more satisfying. It was like listening to somebody tell a great ghost story and wanting to know, "Well, was it really true? Was the character really a ghost or was that just how he felt?"

In the news

Collins honored

Mets manager Terry Collins was named to the NL All-Star coaching staff yesterday.

Tony LaRussa, the defending World Series champion St. Louis Cardinals' manager, will still manage the team despite retiring.

"I think it's great. It's an honor to be asked," Collins said. "And certainly it's a thrill to be associated with the game itself. I'm truly honored. I told Tony I was shocked."

Coughlin not happy with Ballard move

Giants head coach Tom Coughlin rarely vents his emotions. So that he bristled at questions about Jake Ballard being claimed on waivers by the Patriots was news in itself.

"Discouraged" is a minor description; very disappointing, "Coughlin said. "I'm not going to have a lot to say about that one — just the fact that we are disappointed; very disappointed."

The team chose to waive the injured tight end, with the assumption he would clear waivers and could be re-signed, as opposed to keeping him on the 90-man roster and placing him on IR. He wouldn't answer why.

"Don't ask me those questions. I don't have the answers for you there. We are all disappointed, that's all." ● METRO

Parise to MSG: 'No'

► Devils captain is center of attention at breakup day ► Say he doesn't envision signing with Rangers ► Hopes to work out deal with New Jersey

By his own admission, Zach Parise does not know what his future holds. But he knows the organization that he wants no part of.

Parise had a simple, direct response when asked if he could envision signing with the Rangers as a free agent this off-season.

"No."

That was just part of a wide-ranging interview session with the Devils' captain on the team's breakup day following their series loss in Game 6 of the Stanley Cup final.

"It still sucks. We [were] hoping we would be playing [Game 7] tonight," Parise said yesterday. But the Devils were still proud about what they had accomplished.

The Devils finished the regular season with a 48-28-6 record, good for 102 points and the No. 6 seed in the Eastern Conference. The 2011-12 season marked the 13th time in franchise history the Devils recorded 100-plus points. The appearance in the Stanley Cup final was the Devils' first since winning the franchise's third championship in 2003.

Still it is a virtual certainty that the reigning Eastern Conference champions will not return wholly intact even with the salary cap expected to increase to $70.3 million.

The Devils have 15 unrestricted free agents highlighted by Parise and Martin Brodeur. Brodeur reiterated yesterday that his initial feeling is that he wants to return, before adding ► Parise wouldn't guarantee he will be back in New Jersey, but he won't be going to the Rangers.

"I hope that we'll be able to keep him. ... I think he's the face of the Devils."

MARTIN BRODEUR, ON PARISE

he owes the organization a final decision before the July 1 free agency period.

Parise is a different situation. The soon-to-be 28-year-old is, along with Nashville defenseman Ryan Suter, the top prize on the unrestricted free agent market.

The Devils' captain finished the regular season with 31 goals and 69 points, and scored eight goals and 15 points in the playoffs.

Even though he would not rule out signing a contract with the only NHL home he's known prior to July 1, Parise said his first foray into unrestricted free agency is "exciting."

"He's a priority; we've said that from day one," general manager Lou Lamoriello said of Parise. "He will remain a priority."

Devils finances still up in air

Devils general manager Lou Lamoriello appeared unconcerned about the franchise's shaky financial state.

The Devils are $200 million in debt and owner Jeff Vanderbeek "is actively working on restructuring the debt," NHL commissioner Gary Bettman said in his state-of-the-union address prior to Game 1 of the Stanley Cup final.

A recently published report suggested the Devils earned $32.3 million during the playoffs.

[has] affected what I'm doing [or] has affected it. What has to be taken care of will be taken care of in the very near future. In my opinion, things will get settled," Lamoriello said.

Zach Parise said the players were ignoring the issue.

"We've only been paying attention to what's been going on, on the ice," he said. "But I don't know where that all stands today." ● METRO/DG

NFL news

Ocho's home

Here's a serious question: Is Chad Ochocinco, now 34, better than Brian Hartline or Davone Bess? We don't know the answer and that's why there's no reason to get excited about Ochocinco on the Dolphins. He may not even stick as a starter.

USING ALL OF YOUR TOOLS

There's a difference between a great baseball player and a great fantasy baseball player.

Sometimes, that gap is hard to see. If a guy strikes out a million times and is awful in the field, he's not necessarily helping his squad. However, he could easily be a fantasy beast.

Leading off

There's a lot of value in accumulating leadoff hitters. For example, Angel Pagan is No. 36 overall in ESPN's player rater because he scores runs and swipes bags while hitting in front of the Giants' heavy hitters. Alejandro De Aza isn't an elite talent either, but he's a top-25 player for similar reasons.

Swing and a miss

Wins is a brutal category because it depends on a pitcher's offense and bullpen. One thing we can count on is strikeouts. Cliff Lee has zero wins, but is still a top-40 pitcher thanks in large part to his 74 strikeouts in 70 2/3 innings. Ivan Nova and Derek Lowe have combined for 17 wins, but neither are top-60 fantasy starter options.

The cream of the crop

The best fantasy players have no holes. Prince Fielder and Alex Rodriguez have the big names, but Carlos Gonzalez and Andrew McCutchen have the significantly bigger fantasy games. That's because they hit for average, power and steal bags. Target the well-balanced studs.

► Carlos Gonzalez has a game built for fantasy success.

NFL rookies

Everyone knows about Trent Richardson and Doug Martin. But these rookies fly further under the radar:

1 David Wilson, RB, NYG — Wilson will bring extreme athleticism and explosion to the old Brandon Jacobs role.

2 Kendall Wright, WR, TEN — Kenny Britt's rehab hasn't been smooth. Wright is shining at all three wideout spots during spring practice.

3 Brian Quick, WR, STL — He was drafted to be Sam Bradford's go-to guy right away. Quick is drawing comparisons to Terrell Owens.

Top MLB pickups

Ryan Cook

RP, Athletics
Brian Fuentes has blown his chance to close games. Enter Cook, a 24-year-old righty who has a 0.67 ERA and 0.89 WHIP through 25 outings.

Paul Goldschmidt

1B, Diamondbacks
A brutal start had owners panicking. But over the last 30 days Goldy is hitting .363 with six homers and a pair of steals.

Trevor Plouffe

2B, 3B, SS, OF, Twins
Plouffe is a versatile 2004 first-round pick that is now in his prime at age 26. In 144 career big-league games, he's smacked 20 homers.

Landry rehab still 'ahead of the game'

New Jet LaRon Landry said his speedy recovery from a foot injury suffered last year "is shocking myself," but the former first-round pick isn't yet ready to commit to being healthy for the start of training camp.

Much like the first day of minicamp, Landry participated in light jogging and stretching with the team yesterday, but didn't participate in team drills. Landry spent much of the last month in Arizona, recovering from what was originally called an Achilles injury. "Basically I came for the first couple of weeks of offseason training and then after that, went back to Arizona to have procedures done," Landry said. "That was my choice and decision to go back so that they could finish — complete whatever I had to do rehab-wise, strength and conditioning. I felt real comfortable going back, and I had no doubt that I would come back and not be ahead of the game."

Landry, a hard-hitting safety, was the prize free-agent signing of head coach Rex Ryan, but he has been plagued with injuries throughout his career.

► Landry

Rather than have surgery, Landry instead went the route of alternative treatments, including stem cell treatment and platelet rich plasma therapy. The injection of platelets into an injured area promotes healing and growth of the area.

"I did one treatment, was supposed to do three. Didn't have to do the other two," Landry said. "That's a blessing; I'm ahead of the game."

Landry's absence from the team is no indication of a lack of excitement to be with the Jets. His brother, Dawan, spent five years with Ryan in Baltimore.

"When I was going on my visits, [he said] 'As soon as you go to the Jets just sign. No need to look anywhere else, you're going to love it.' The way this organization does things as a whole is the right way," Landry said. ● KRISTIAN DYER

17

Landry has played in just 17 games combined over the past two seasons as he dealt with injuries.

5.9

Landry averaged 5.9 tackles per game over the past two seasons — good for a safety.
